

In Ulm the department Computational Electrochemistry of the DLR Institute of Engineering Thermodynamics is situated at the Helmholtz Institute Ulm (HIU).

Deutsches Zentrum für Luft- und Raumfahrt (DLR)
Institut of Engineering Thermodynamics

at Helmholtz-Institut Ulm (HIU)

Helmholtzstrasse 11

89081 Ulm

By Bus

- Coming from the main station (Hauptbahnhof) take the bus no. 3 or 5 (Direction: Wissenschaftsstadt, Ticket: 2,10 €). Exit the bus at the stop „Botanischer Garten“ and turn right on to „Helmholtzstrasse“.

By Train

- With the German Railway (www.bahn.de) to Ulmer Hauptbahnhof. There you can take a car, taxi or the bus.

By Plane

- The closest international airport is „Stuttgart“. At the airport, take the S-Bahn S1 (Direction: Hauptbahnhof / Kirchheim), S2 (Direction: Hauptbahnhof / Schorndorf) or S3 (Direction: Hauptbahnhof / Backnang). There you may take the Regional Express or the Intercity to Ulm.

By Car

- Coming on the autobahn A 8 from Stuttgart or Munich

Take the exit 62 „Ulm-West“ onto the B10 in the direction of Ulm/Friedrichshafen. After 3.8 km take the exit „Wissenschaftsstadt / Universität“. Stay on the „Berliner Ring“ for 1 km. Then turn left into Albert-Einstein-Allee. Turn left twice into „Helmholtzstrasse“.

- Coming on the autobahn A 7 from Kempten

Right in front of the autobahn triangle Hittistetten, keep right on the B28 direction Ulm/Neu-Ulm/Senden. Keep on going on the B 10. Leave the B10 at the exit „Wissenschaftsstadt / Universität“. Keep left, driving 1.2 km on the „Berliner Ring“. Then turn left to Albert-Einstein-Allee. Turn left twice into „Helmholtzstrasse“.

By Taxi

- At the station taxi are available; if not please contact +49 (0) 731 66 0 66.